FROM KENTUCKY

The Colonels Got One More Hit
Than the F. F. V.'s But Made
Only One-Fourth the Runs.

SCORE OF TWELVE TO THREE

The Superb Fielding of Dawson
Was the Feature of Virginia's Playing.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., April 18.—Virginia defeated Kentucky University to-day by a score of 12 to 3. The contest was a peculiar one, from the fact that Kentucky got one more hit than Virginia made, but one more error, and yet only scored one-fourth as many runs. This is partly accounted for, however, by the unsteadiness of Chennault, who issued eight free passes to first in the six innings he officiated in the box. Virginia started off with a rush, sending a succession of runs across the plate in the first inning. Four more were added in the third. Rice received one in the fifth. Chandler secured a single; Moore walked; Lawler lined out a two-bagger; and Walker followed with an opportune drive. In the sixth two singles in succession, by Maddux and Rice, and a neat sacrifice by Hoff, tallied two runs. Kentucky changed pitchers in the seventh, but Virginia took kindly to Smith's delivery, and before he could settle down, scored two additional runs.

Kentucky scored in only two innings. In the fourth a single by Welch, a triple by Dawson and a hot grounder by Kimbrough tallied two.

Hoff's fumble of Tunia's hard drive down the third line, after Harrison had leveled, was responsible for Kentucky's other run.

The feature of Virginia's playing was the superb fielding of Dawson, who accepted seven chances, many of them very difficult. For Kentucky, Harrison did some terrific hitting, securing three slashing singles and a double. Tunia's game was hotly contested, but he could not hold up against the visitors. Bailey for Davidson and Goodlee for Virginia secured three batters.

DANVILLE, VA., April 18.—The excellent pitching of McDonald, combined with the perfect fielding of the Danville baseball team, were the means by which the Baltimore Yankees were handed out one good round, large goose-egg, in the contest here to-day, while the local players elected the bases empty.

The game to-day lasted well in the mouth of the Danville fans, and the contest was, of course, interesting to them.

RICHMOND BALL PLAYER
MAKING GOOD IN WEST

"Jack" Frost Trying for Infield on Sioux City Team—His Good Record.

A Richmond boy, who has gone West and is making good as a ballplayer, is Jack Frost. "Jack" is trying for infield on the Sioux City team, and the Journal of that city says of him:

"He has become popular with the Sioux City fans on account of his extreme willingness to work. He is full of nervous energy, and goes after everything that comes his way, almost always. It may be said, accepting the chances with his speech, and he is continually talking to the other players while in the field.

"At the ball Frost has also been doing very well. He hits the ball always, often safe. Carney obtained him from Port Dodge, in the Iowa State League, where he went last summer after being driven out of the Cotton States' League by the prevalence of yellow fever in the South. Since Al Newton has returned, Frost and Brennan are fighting it out for a permanent berth at the third sack.

Either man, in the judgment of many fans, has it over Danny Sheehan, who played third for the Packers last season."

HARVARD DEFEATS
YELLOW JACKETS

Randolph-Macon Makes Three Runs in Ninth Inning and the Score is 7 to 3.

GOOD PITCHING OF GREEN

Harvey Makes Brilliant Play
Behind Second Base.

In a game that at first promised to be a shut-out for Harvard, that team yesterday afternoon defeated Randolph-Macon by the score of 7 to 3; the Yellow Jackets scoring all their runs in the ninth inning. The contest was one in which the battle raged mainly with the pitchers, Hartford and Green for the Northerners, and Gaver, for Randolph-Macon. Though, but a green man in the box, this having been the first game in which he spent the twirlers, Gaver showed up exceedingly well, allowing only eleven hits, which is not a bad showing, all considered. Hartford did the twirling for the Crimson in the first three innings, and then Green took charge of the twirlers, allowing only five hits during the six innings. His work was of the grandstand variety, as he has plenty of speed and curve and an almost perfect control.

In the ninth inning a costly error of McCall at second base, who made a bad throw to the home plate, the ball going between Stephenson's legs, allowed two runs, which, with two runs made in the first inning, and one in the fifth, swelled the total up to seven. For five innings the Yellow Jackets could make no hits at all, the first coming in the seventh inning, the second in the eighth and three more in the last inning of the game.

Harvey's Great Catch.

By far and away the feature of the game was the splendid catch made by Harvey, the Crimson shortstop, who ran behind second base and landed what is popularly known as a Texas Leaguer—a ball too far out for the second baseman and too close in for the center field.

He was roundly cheered by the grand stand, for it was the best play of the whole game. Another feature was the three bagger of Dexter, for Harvard, on an error of Walters, who later scored on an error of Walters, at second base, who then the ball wild to first. McCarty made first on the same error, and later crossed the plate.

Otherwise there was no brilliant playing, the game being steady throughout on both sides, except for the fatal errors of Harvard in the last inning.

There was a goodly crowd on the bleachers and in the grand stand, and there was an appreciative of the good plays of the Northerners as of the local team. For the Crimson the game was more in the nature of a practice to determine the holders of the positions for the game with the Navy, which is to be played at Annapolis. Judging from the display made by the Yellow Jackets, they will stand a good show for the pennant in the Eastern intercollegiate League.

The score by innings is as follows:

SPORTSMEN MEET HERE.

Effort Being Made to Have the American League Here.

An effort is being made by President G. C. Shields, of the League of American Sportsmen, to have the annual meeting of the league in Jamestown during the exposition next year. He has written Mr. M. D. Hart, of this city, secretary of the Virginia branch of the league, outlining a plan and inviting Virginia sportsmen to attend the next meeting to be held this year in Buffalo and to extend the invitation to meet in Virginia next year.

This organization, through the personal efforts of Mr. Shields, has done much for the preservation of game in this country, and laws to that end have been passed in many of the States. The local organization has likewise effected some reform along this line, and it would seem but well to have the national association meet here next year.

Some of the prominent men who helped to organize the work here are Messrs. L. T. Christian, Jackson Guy and John Jackson. Any information concerning the proposed trip to Buffalo and the invitation to the league to meet here next year may be had from Secretary Hart, room No. 209 Mutual Building, Richmond.

"Ben Hur" Coming.

"Ben Hur, a Tale of the Christ," the novel written by General Lew Wallace, will be presented in a fascinating form to the men of Richmond, under the auspices of the Christian Association, at the men's big meeting next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The talk will be illustrated by one hundred stereopticon views, and will be given in the Seventh-Street Christian Church, Grace and Seventh Streets. Mr. Fairbank is a student traveler and lecturer. At night in the same church, Mr. Fairbank will give "The Sign of the Cross," illustrated.

MANY INQUIRIES
REGARDING REAL ESTATE

Open Weather Given Much Impetus to Dealings in Real Property.

With the continuance of open spring weather inquiry for real estate is on the increase, and agents holding desirable building lots are kept busy showing the same and explaining to inquirers their advantages of location, etc. Good building lots for small houses. Inquiry for cheaper lots—that is to say, small space on the cross streets near to the leading thoroughfares—is the distinguishing feature so far of this week's business. Men of small means, who want to build nice and cozy homes, are looking for lots on the cross streets near to the main avenue and Grace and Franklin Street homes are decidedly in evidence, and agents report numerous sales of lots to such buyers. Most of these sales have been made in the western section and cross made in near West Main are showing up in great shape.

All the auction sales this week have been largely attended, showing decided interest in real estate investing.

J. T. Carnell and Son yesterday sold the property, No. 302 West Broad Street, for $400.

Beginning at 5 o'clock this afternoon, McVeh and Glinn will sell at auction twenty-three building lots in Brookland Park.

At 5:30, J. Thompson Brown and Company will sell at auction a splendid manufacturing site, located just the west of the property of the Tredgar Company, and fronting on the river.

J. Thompson Brown and Company sold at auction yesterday afternoon the two Church Hill dwellings, No. 707 and 709 North Twenty-fourth Street, as advertised in The Times-Dispatch, to Mr. T. J. Moody for $250.

The sale was made to close up the estate of the late F. W. Clarke. The same firm will sell at auction on the 25th inst. a magnificent manufacturing plant adjoining the Albemarle Paper Mill, and just west of the Tredgar Company's property.

The plot for the 25th inst. is on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, extends back to James River, and besides its fine rail connection, it could be made a valuable power site. It must be sold to close out the holdings of a non-resident.

Ashlands Play Here.

The Ashland baseball team, which is made up of the former star players of the college team of the past three years, will meet the Richmond League Club in Richmond at Broad Street Park this afternoon at 4 o'clock. If the Ashland boys put up a game in keeping with what they have been playing this season, the Ashlands will be a team to interest them, as Mill's men are no novices and they do fine team work. Leake and Cross will be the better for the Ashlands. The lineup will be as follows: Cross, catcher; Leake, pitcher; Phillips, shortstop; Mills, first base; Boone, second base; Swift, third base; Vinton, right field; Jordan, center field; Bridges, left field.

"Ben Hur" Coming.

"Ben Hur, a Tale of the Christ," the novel written by General Lew Wallace, will be presented in a fascinating form to the men of Richmond, under the auspices of the Christian Association, at the men's big meeting next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The talk will be illustrated by one hundred stereopticon views, and will be given in the Seventh-Street Christian Church, Grace and Seventh Streets. Mr. Fairbank is a student traveler and lecturer. At night in the same church, Mr. Fairbank will give "The Sign of the Cross," illustrated.

DOCTOR JOHNSTON HAS WITHDRAWN

Asked University Board to Release Him From Conditional Acceptance of Chair.

A. C. GORDON ELECTED RECTOR

Four Other Chairs to Be Filled.
Economics, Chemistry, Obstetrics and Pathology.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., April 18.—The board of visitors of the University of Virginia was in session more than three hours this afternoon. The members present were Daniel Harmon, of Charlottesville; William H. White, of Norfolk; Eppa Hunton, of Richmond; Armistead C. Gordon, of Staunton; Congressman Hal D. Flood, of Appomattox; Judge J. D. K. Norton, of Alexandria; John W. Chadwick, of Lynchburg; Joseph D. Eggleston, superintendent of Virginia Instruction, and President Alderman. The absentees were R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, and Benjamin F. Buchanan, of Marlton.

Armistead C. Gordon, of Staunton, was elected rector to succeed Charles P. Jones, of Highland Springs, who term as a member of the board had expired.

Dr. George Ben Johnston, of Richmond, asked to be released from his conditional acceptance of the chair of surgery, and the request was granted with regret. The president was authorized to take steps to fill this vacancy and to supply four other chairs, namely, economics, chemistry, obstetrics and pathology.

Dr. Johnston had accepted, under certain conditions, the chair of obstetrics in the medical school of the University of Virginia, a movement was inaugurated to amalgamate the two medical schools of Richmond as well as the hospitals. Dr. Johnston resigned from the Medical College of Virginia, but his resignation was not acted upon.

When last September it became known that Dr. Johnston had accepted, under certain conditions, the chair of obstetrics in the medical school of the University of Virginia, a movement was inaugurated to amalgamate the two medical schools of Richmond as well as the hospitals. Dr. Johnston resigned from the Medical College of Virginia, but his resignation was not acted upon.

Dr. Johnston was personally opposed to amalgamation, and his determination to remain in Richmond will defeat the proposed plan, and will remain a member of the faculty, he said, but if it did not, he would take such steps as he thought proper.

Since that time a rumor has been general to the effect that Dr. Johnston would remain in Richmond and continue to lead the body at the head of which he has long been.

The matter of amalgamation has been very freely discussed by the faculty of the medical school here, and while there had been no official steps taken to bring about the movement, it was generally understood that the plan would be accomplished when Dr. Johnston left to take up his work at the University of Virginia in September.

This school, then, Dr. Johnston to remain in Richmond will change all these plans of amalgamation, and a well-known physician last night.
